C. Read the story and choose the best answers.The Girl and the Tiger

Long ago, a government official asked a young girl to marry him. Just before the wedding, however, the man was sent to work in another town and the marriage was delayed. When the time came for the wedding, the girl and her family traveled to the town. On the way, a huge tiger attacked them. It snatched the girl and ran into the forest.

At the same time, the official and his friend were walking in the forest. They saw a hut and stopped for a rest. Suddenly, they heard a big animal. Through the windows, they saw a tiger with a girl in its mouth. They shouted and hit the walls of the hut. The noise frightened the tiger, and it dropped the girl. She was injured but still alive.

They took her home, but the man didn't recognize her because she was so badly hurt. The next day, a neighbor told him about a young girl who had been attacked by a tiger on her way to her wedding. Then, he realized who the girl was.

When she recovered, they were married. The local people still tell the story of the girl who was taken to her husband by a tiger.

D. Read the story and choose T for true or F for false.Racing Horses

Many years ago, a wise trainer named Wu taught the king how to ride horses and how to drive a chariot. After some time, the king started to race. But no matter how often the king raced against Wu, he could never beat him.

The king was very unsatisfied. He could not understand why he always lost. He said to Wu, "You've taught me how to ride and how to drive a chariot. But I don't think that you have taught me how to race."

"I have taught you everything that I know," replied Wu. "But you have not learned everything I've taught you. Remember, the most important thing is to pay attention to your horse. The driver of the chariot and the horse should cooperate. However, you have a problem. When you are racing, you forget about your horse. When you are behind me, you want to catch up with me. And when you are ahead of me, you are afraid that I will catch up with you. So, whether you are ahead or behind, you are only concentrating on what I am doing, not on your horse. If you want to achieve victory, you must think only of your horses."
